WHAT IS ORCID?

- An identifier for researchers
- A registry
- A set of standard procedures for connecting researchers to their affiliations and activities
- A committed community building connectors
- An international-scale open research effort

ORCID's vision is a world where all who participate in research, scholarship, and innovation are uniquely identified and connected to their contributions across disciplines, borders, and time.

CORE PRINCIPLES OF ORCID

- Researcher control
- Community governance
- Openness
- Persistence

ORCID IS OPT-IN

- ORCID is an opt-in system
- You own and control your record

 ORCID record is portable and travels with you throughout your career

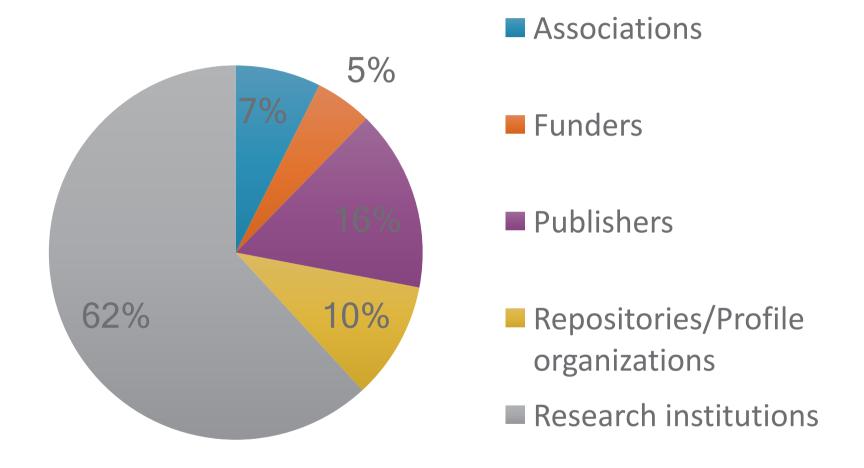

THE ORCID COMMUNITY

- Over 3.3 million researchers
- ~700 members from 39 countries, including national consortia in Australia, Belgium, Canada. Denmark, Finland, Germany, Italy, the Netherlands, New Zealand, Taiwan, the UK and 4 regional consortia in the US
- Over 250 integrations in each sector of the research community

From January you'll need an ORCID

7 December 2015 by Phil Hurst

Mandating the use of Open Researcher and Contributor ID (ORCID) by submitting authors.

ORCID provides a unique identifier for all researchers that can be linked to their different research works and activities across multiple platforms. It also serves to distinguish authors with similar names and simplify searching of publications databases (such as PubMed, Scopus, etc.) to avoid retrieving articles by authors with similar names. Close to 1.8 million researchers have already created their ORCID iD. The service is non-profit and community driven.

From 1 January 2016, we will require the submitting author to provide an ORCID identifier as part of the manuscript submission process. Details of the practicalities will be provided shortly, but don't worry, it takes less than a minute to register for an ORCID iD and it's free of charge. A recent survey carried out by ORCID indicates strong support in the research community for mandates by publishers, funders, and universities.

The ability to uniquely identify contributors is a deceptively simple concept which, if realised, could enable forms of real-time understanding of scientific research that up to now have been extremely costly (if not impossible).

FUNDERS

National funding agencies are using ORCID in their grants management systems including the National Research Foundation (ZA) National Institutes of Health (US), Research Councils UK, and the Australian Research Council.
